Project manager International, Business Metropole Ruhr GmbH - Presentation of the start-up platform "MatchMaker Ruhr"

Mrs Lu Yan.

Project Manager at Taicang Port Economic and Technological Development Zone, Suzhou, VR China

10:00-12:00 CET

Tourism Sector addressing the Pandemic - Working with Local Municipalities:

The devastating impacts of the COVID-19 crisis on the global tourism sector are evident in tourism destinations facing the sustained loss of revenues and jobs. Tourism stakeholder concerns are compounded by uncertainty about recovery timeframes, although governments worldwide have been actively planning and implementing recovery efforts. The sessions will cover examples on how the sector responds to the Covid Crisis with the help of local municipalities.

Jens Braun. Head of Tourist Office Weimar, Weimar GmbH. Germany.

Karen Weber, Marketing Director by KTG Karlsruhe Tourismus GmbH, Germany.

Prafulla Pradhan, Advisor, Lalitpur Metropolitan City, Nepal

WEDNESDAY, DAY 3

Economic Response, Housing & Education

Municipalities and their COVID-19 response to local economic development:

One of the challenges that local governments face is the economic impact of the sudden closure of local businesses. The multiplier effect of such closures is multifold, which results in a reduction in tax revenues and user charges for the local governments and an increased strain on our local economies. A sample of nine African cities will display actions that have been taken to address or mitigate those impacts.

Dr. Daniel Okello Ayen, Director Public Health & Environment, Kampala Capital City Authority

Lance Morrell Managing Director, FEI Consulting, USA

Martin Onyach-Olaa, Senior Urban Specialist, the World Bank, Kampala Office, Uganda.

Smart schooling – Corona as a chance to bridge the digital divide

Many schools and cities around the world had started to invest in digital learning tools long before the pandemic hit the globe - now these tools are crucial to enable children and youth to access education safely. Countries, cities, and schools have to bridge their current gaps with regard to this new way of teaching and learning-and make sure that everybody is guaranteed to be able to access these digital learning tools.

Paul Scott. Curriculum Innovation Service Manager, The Innovation Centre Bradford, Bradford, UK.

Nadia Odio, BRITE Initiative, Jacmel, Haiti.

WEDNESDAY, DAY 3

Economic Response, Housing & Education

Urban Poverty and Living Conditions: Limiting COVID-19 Impacts in Densely Populated Backyard Rental Areas

The session will provide an opportunity for identified city government officials and other key stakeholders to engage each other on the impact of COVID-19 on densely populated residential areas of informal landlordism, how municipal governance has been affected in these areas. and responses implemented since COVID-19.

Jorge Rodriguez Nieto, Partner CEO, DTG Spain

Danny Chibinda, Director of Housing and Social Services, Lusaka City Council, Zambia

Justice Matarutse. Program Manager, Durban City Council, South Africa

David Gardner, International Urban Development Consultant, SA

Cooperation between administration and schools in times of Corona

Schools and their teachers are faced with major challenges but how can local authorities support schools and teachers in enabling pupils to learn from home during the pandemic? How can local authorities and schools work together to achieve the best possible and safest outcome for everybody?

Dietlinde Stroop, Media Education Officer, Paderborn, Germany.

Claudia Weindl, Education Management, Landshut, Germany.

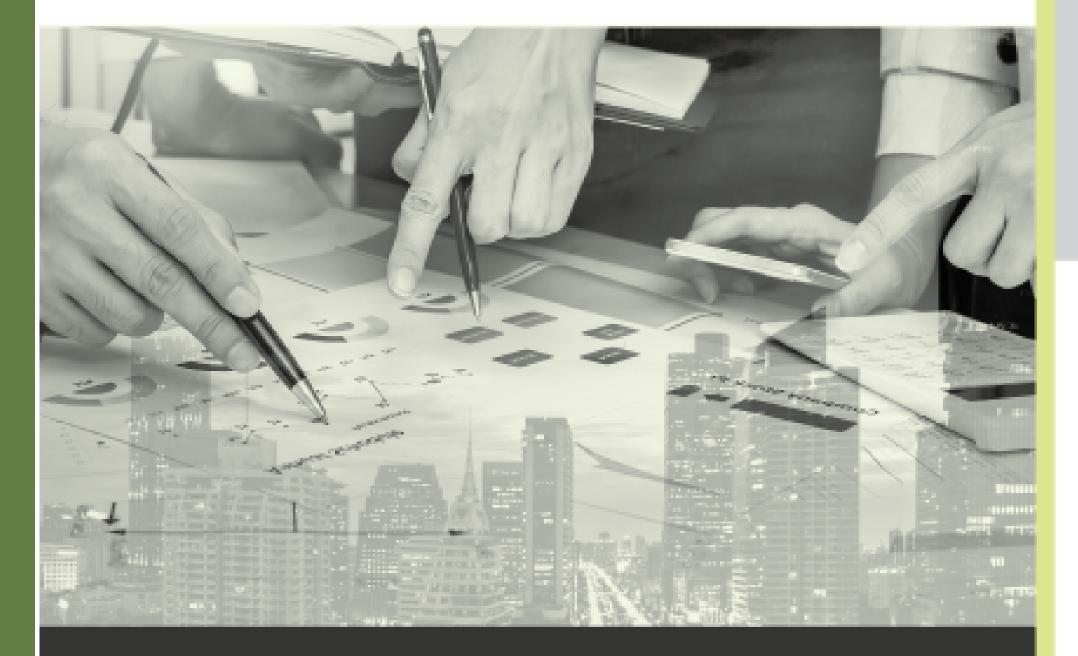

Opportunities of Digitalisation & Crisis Communication

Digital literacy and knowhow transfer serving as enablers for pandemic - resilient communities:

This session addresses the importance of digital literacy and data management. How do they determine the success of adaption strategies to the pandemic?

Dr. Christian Huesmann, Project Manager Program 'Future of Democracy', Bertelsmann Foundation.
